Paws and Leaves – A Last Tale Kickstarter Enters Final Days with Over 150% Funding Achieved

After a heartfelt relaunch, the touching indie adventure surpasses its goal with 700 backers and just three days left to pledge.

November 2024, Brake, Germany – Indie developer grownarts is celebrating a milestone: after relaunching its Kickstarter campaign in early August, Paws and Leaves – A Last Tale has already reached over 150% of its funding goal with the support of more than 700 backers worldwide.

With just three days remaining, fans of emotional storytelling and narrative-driven games have their final chance to become part of this unique journey.

Following a first, unsuccessful Kickstarter attempt in 2024, grownarts returned stronger, with an even more dedicated community and refined vision. The response has been overwhelming: supporters from around the globe are ensuring that this emotional game about memory, loss, and hope will be brought to life.

About the Game
In Paws and Leaves, players step into the role of Me, a young fox embarking on his final journey after a snake bite, guided by the butterfly Ani. Along the way, memories blend with reality as players explore a beautifully melancholic world filled with reflection, secrets, and keepsakes left by backers themselves.

Final Days to Join the Journey

The Kickstarter campaign is now in its last stretch. Supporters still have the chance to secure exclusive rewards, personal keepsakes can be included in the game world and become part of the growing community that made this project possible.

About grownarts
